FRENCH COURSE.

The course of study in French will be made longer or shorter, according to the wants of the students. At least one year's study of this language is required of all students who graduate in the Scientific course. It may be elected instead of Greek or Latin by students of the Classical course who have completed that course as far as the beginning of the Junior Year. The books used at present are:

FIRST TERM.....Fasquell's French Course, and Telemachus.
SECOND TERM.....Fasquell continued, and French Reader.
THIRD TERM.....Howard's Aids to French Composition,
Histoire d'une Bouchee de pain.
FOURTH TERM.....Composition continued, Reading.

The teacher of French has enjoyed the advantage of ample opportunities for acquiring a correct pronunciation by personal intercourse with French people.

GERMAN COURSE.

This course is also made to suit the wants of the students. One year's study is required of all students who graduate in the Scientific course. This language may also be elected instead of Greek or Latin by students of the Classical Course who have completed that course as far as the beginning of the Junior Year. The books now in use are:

First Term.....Whitney's Grammar and Reader.

Second Term.....Grammar and Reader with the exercises in writing in the Grammar.

Third Term..... ....Exercises in Composition.
Herrman and Dorothea—Goethe.

Fourth Term.....Exercises in Composition.
Jungfrau von Orleans—Schiller.

Fifth Term.....Mina von Barnhelm—Lessing. Wilhelm Tell--Schiller.
English into German.

Sixth Term.....Goethe's Faust, with History of German Literature.

During the whole course frequent practice in memorizing German is kept up. Weekly meetings are held which all the students of the different classes attend. The exercises are of a social character, embracing Recitations. Letter writing, Games in German and conversation. The teacher has spent two years among the Germans in their native country and spares no pains to secure the rapid progress of the student.

Ministerial Course.

FIRST YEAR—First Term.—Bible. Latin, Greek, Higher Algebra, English Grammar.

Second Term.—Bible, Latin, Greek, Geometry, English Composition.

SECOND YEAR—First Term.—Bible, Latin, Greek, Geometry, Trigonometry (Plane), English Literature, Rhetoric.

Second Term—Elocution, Bible, Logic. Political Economy, Christian Doctrine, Composition of Sermons. Critical Study of English, Hebrew. Church History.

This course is designed to give the student such a knowledge of Greek, Latin and Hebrew as will enable him to handle with ease the best commentaries; to impart thorough knowledge of the structure of the English language, and elegance in its use; and especially to imbue his heart with the spirit of Christianity while its great doctrines are unfolded to his mind.

General Information.

THE COLLEGE.

1. Location.—Waynesburg is a village of about 2000 inhabitants, pleasantly and healthfully located. Free from the excitements and temptations common to towns on the great thoroughfares of travel, it affords a peculiarly favorable retreat for an institution of learning. The citizens are intelligent and hospitable, and manifest a friendly interest in the welfare of students by receiving them into their families as boarders, and by admitting them to the best social circles.

2. History.—Waynesburg College was chartered by State authority, in the year 1850, with power "to confer all degrees conferred by Colleges and Universities in the United States." It has now been in successful operation over twenty-five years, enjoying at this time a large patronage, with brightening prospects for the future, and a most enviable hold upon public confidence and sympathy.

3. Character.—The College is not strictly co-educational. The Female Department has its own Principal, course of study, and internal arrangements.

Though under the control of an ecclesiastical body, it is practically unsectarian, and is patronized by all denominations in the region in which it is located. Perfect freedom is allowed to the students in matters of religious faith, preference for place of attending worship, &c. The laws of the College forbid the introduction of the "doctrinal points that divide the Protestant churches," in the religious instruction of the students.

4. Advantages.—Situated in a region that is rich in material resources, enjoying almost exclusively the patronage of a large adjacent territory, and animated by an intense internal vigor, it needs only the continued fostering care of its friends, to give it a still more enviable position among the institutions of the country.

It claims to be unexcelled in (1) Economy, (2) Healthfulness, (3) Moral Tone, (4) Thoroughness of Instruction.

COURSES OF STUDY AND METHODS OF INSTRUCTION.

The courses of study have been arranged with the greatest care, with respect both to the branches and the text-books used. On comparison with the same course in other Institutions, it may seem that the "Classical Course" allows less than the usual time for the study of Greek and Latin. Let it be observed, however,

1 That this course is to be thoroughly and fully pursued.

2. The method of instruction is continually directed to the mastery of the structure of these noble languages, as the proper object of their study in College. Constant attention is also given to the acquiring of a good vocabulary of words by memorizing choice selections. At each recitation the whole of the preceding lesson is reviewed, and an attempt is made to render it into better English than can be secured by translating literally. During the preparatory course, daily recitations are made in both Greek and Latin, every lesson requiring both oral and written exercises in syntax This exercise will be kept up in connection with the reading lessons till an accurate knowledge of the idioms is acquired. After the first session of the Sophomore Year the Grammar will not be taught as a separate study.

The ear is constantly exercised, as well as the eye; and by constant recitations in concert the mastery of the inflections of words becomes easy, and what so many students have looked upon as the "dreary Grammar," becomes a delightful exercise and a study of absorbing interest. The student's mind is also continually directed to the Greek and Latin roots, from which our own language has derived many words, and to the points of similarity and difference between our own language and these noble languages of antiquity.

In other branches the mastery of a suitable text-book is held to be the most direct means of definite knowledge. The student is required to know what the text-book teaches, but is allowed entire freedom in his methods of expression. It is assumed that effort is the essential condition of development, and every student is from the first put under the necessity of thinking for himself, and required to rise in his turn before his class, to explain and illustrate the topic assigned. By way of explanation, new illustrations, and judicious questions, the Professor adds what may be necessary to a full understanding of the subject of the recitation. Free intercourse among the pupils, and between pupils and professors, by question, debate, criticism and argument, secures interest in the recitation room, and leads the student forward in that development which imparts increased mental power and activity. It is training conducted in this manner that insures the kind of knowledge and the kind of intellectual activity required for the great practical duties of life.

EXPENSES

This Institution aims to bring higher education within the reach of the greatest possible number of youth, and therefore makes the student's expenses as light as possible. The following is a reliable estimate for the summer of 1877:

Boarding in families, including furnished rooms, from $3 25 to $4.00.

Club-boarding, with hired cook, (rent of room included.) from $2.00 to $3.50 a week, as students choose to live.

Self-boarding, (rent of furnished room included,) from $1.50 to $2.50 a week, as the student may live.

Tuition, for term of 20 weeks, including contingent fee, $8.00.

No uniform rates can be made out for lights, washing, and other incidental expenses. Society fees are stated elsewhere.

Students preparing for the ministry in any denomination, and the children of ministers, are admitted free of charge for tuition.

Hebrew, French, German, Penmanship, Gymnastics, Elocution, and Book-keeping are extra studies, for which a fee is charged.

It is very certain that students can attend Waynesburg College at much less expense than is common in institutions affording so many and varied facilities. Many young ladies and young men find the strictest economy the sole condition of an education, and all such find in this Institution a most kind sympathy with their laudable efforts, and many such have alternately taught and attended college until graduation, to take high rank in some profession.

RELIGIOUS INFLUENCE.

Every student is required to attend the devotional exercises held daily in the College Chapel, consisting in reading the Scriptures, singing, and prayer. The Chapel is furnished with hymn books and an organ, and the singing is rendered a delightful exercise.

Students are required to attend public worship at least once each Lord's day, and to observe the day as sacred to rest and the duties of religion. Many also attend the various prayer-meetings and Sunday schools of the place.

It is confidently believed that there are few similar institutions pervaded by a moral and religious influence so marked and healthful. The students usually sustain a weekly prayer-meeting in the Chapel, and the prevailing sentiment of the Institution is decidedly favorable to those who are striving to live the Christian life.

ASSOCIATION OF THE SEXES.

Waynesburg College is one of the first organized for the admission of both sexes. A great change of sentiment has taken place, and many of the foremost colleges and universities have adopted this practice. The ablest educators advocate it. Fair trial shows that the association of ladies and gentlemen, as students, subjects both to the strongest stimulus to exertion and to right conduct. The school becomes a family, and the order which marks a school of several hundred pupils is a matter of wonder to those accustomed to the working of the old system.

In this Institution the association of the two sexes, under proper restriction, and at suitable times, is encouraged, not prohibited. Health, morality, and social culture are thereby promoted.

TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.

The Managers of this Institution urge the duty of economy on the part of pupils. Unrestricted use of money is a temptation that few young persons can withstand. It is better, in the majority of cases, that money for younger pupils be intrusted to some Professor.

If younger pupils fail to answer the purpose for which they are sent to the Institution, the right of the parent or guardian to know the fact is regarded, and prompt information is given.

SPECIAL RULES.

1. The bell will be rung at 9 o'clock a. m. on Tuesday, the opening day of each term, when students will be expected to be present in the Chapel, for enrollment and classification.

2. Recitations will begin on Wednesday morning.

3. Students will be credited with every exercise during the term, including recitations, attendance on the daily devotional exercises, and performance in the literary society.

4. Every exercise omitted by a student through tardiness at the opening of the term, or on any other account, will reduce the aggregate credits of the student, and his grade at the end of the term shall be reduced in the same proportion, when the omission of any exercise assigned is not clearly unavoidable.

5. Every student is required to attend the examinations at the close of the term, and no student absenting himself from such examination shall be entitled to credit for the studies of the term, to honorable dismission, or certificate of scholarship or standing.

DEGREES.

Waynesburg College is empowered by its liberal charter to "confer all degrees conferred by the colleges and universities of the United States."

BACHELOR OF ARTS—Is conferred on students who complete the Classical Course.

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE—Is conferred on those who complete the Scientific Course.

MASTER OF ARTS—Is conferred on graduates of the Classical Course in three years after graduation.

BACHELOR OF DIDACTICS—Is conferred on students who complete the Teachers' Course.

HELPING THEMSELVES.

Many students replenish their purses in the vacations by some remunerative employment. Some engage in manual labor during vacation. Others canvass for books, papers, &c. There will always be a way for the student willing to find or make one. No one need sit idly down, to lament that education is not in his reach. The President of the College will take pleasure in directing students to profitable work when it is in his power to do so, and no young man or young lady should feel that it is reproachful to engage in any useful work.

CONDUCT AND GOVERNMENT.

Character is an indispensable element in true education, and should be regarded as even more important than either knowledge or culture. It is the aim of Waynesburg College to subject its students to the strongest possible motives to right conduct. Precept and example are combined to show them the better way of a life of virtue. The young man is made to feel that if he is a gentleman he will govern himself, and pupils of the other sex are continually subject to influences calculated to render them ladies in the truest sense. The object of the founders of the Institution is to afford the very best facilities for acquiring a Christian education, and young men who are known to be guilty of card-playing, intemperance, profanity, or any other corrupting vice, will certainly be discharged. The daily reading of the Scriptures, moral instruction, kind interconrse of the Faculty with the students, and other influences that reach the conduct through the head and the heart, are mainly relied on for maintaining that high moral tone by which the Institution has been characterized.

TEN REASONS FOR ATTENDING WAYNESBURG COLLEGE.

1. Its location is noted for healthfulness.
2. Its professors are experienced teachers, kind and earnest in their efforts to aid the student.
3. Its methods of instruction are such as experience has proved to be adapted to give thorough knowledge and rapid progress.
4. It is noted for high moral tone
5. It admits both sexes, thereby greatly promoting social culture and enjoyment.
6. It makes the student's expenses as light as possible.
7. It has a noble class of students, who are earnestly striving to acquire a liberal education.
8. Its students are most kindly treated by the people of Waynesburg.
9. It is free, in its location and surroundings, from excitements calculated to divert the student's attention and to tempt to needless expenses.
10. It gives such culture as eminently fits the student for success in life's practical work.

WHAT $100 WILL DO.

Exclusive of the cost of books and clothing, it will send a young man or young lady to Waynesburg College one year. That one year's study and contact with college life will be an incalculable advantage. It will fit one who has a knowledge of only the most elementary branches to take charge of a public school, thus to secure the means of further education, and opening the way to any calling or profession. Many a young man has completed the course in this Institution in this way, to take high rank in a profession or to fill a professor's chair in a college or university.

In what other way can a young man or young lady spend $100 and receive so great a return? The knowledge and mental culture acquired are benefits that will repay a hundred fold, in addition to which such culture becomes a pass-port to any society of which the student will show himself worthy.

What young man or young lady cannot command $100 to be expended in a way that will prove a blessing as long as life shall last? Certainly there are few such. When the road to knowledge is made so easy, when the disadvantages of ignorance are daily increasing, when the incentives to noble effort are daily multiplying, what young man or young lady will sit idly down to dream life away?

A SCHOOL FOR TEACHERS.

WAYNESBURG COLLEGE is annually attended by a large number of teachers and persons preparing to be teachers, and it is believed this class of students here find their wants as fully and kindly met, as in the best normal schools, and at less expense. The President of the College has an enviable reputation as an institute lecturer, in this and other States, and has had much experience as an instructor of teachers, and in almost every other branch of the educational work of the country. The graduates of the College have proved very successful as professors and principals in universities, colleges, seminaries, academies and graded and normal schools In addition to the special class instruction and lectures for those preparing to teach, it is the constant aim to make the government of the students, the manner of hearing recitations, and the general routine of daily work, a practical illustration of the best method of instructing and managing a school.

INDUSTRIAL DRAWING.

Those who come to us without having studied this branch are earnestly advised to make it one of the studies of the first year after entering. As taught by Miss Grace A. Oviatt, it is easily learned and is a pleasing exercise. So easily acquired, so useful to the student during his whole course of study, and of such practical utility through life, no student should omit so favorable an opportunity to study it. The education of the hand must hereafter receive more attention, and it is believed the time is not distant when every teacher of a common school will be required to teach Industrial Drawing.

To the Friends of the College.

Waynesburg College has completed its first quarter of a century. The influences that have hitherto given it support and growth are still operative. Every year it draws students from new localities, widens the sphere of its work and enlarges the circle of its friends. It needs only the fostering care of its professed friends to render it in all respects permanent and prosperous.

The Endowment Fund is not at all commensurate with the work done by the College. The professors are compelled to bear heavy burdens, and to be content with inadequate salaries. Men of means, who are friends to the College, are asked to think of its need, and to make timely and liberal bequests and donations to the permanent fund.

The Usefulness of the College is obvious to all candid minds. Two of its graduates are now preaching the gospel in Japan, and a third will join them in a few months. The spirit of the Institution is evidently that of earnest work, of high purpose, of noble consecration of talent to labor for human good.

The Summer Term will open with a large accession of students. Our friends are asked to give us their aid by directing to the College the attention of young persons who have the noble desire of acquiring a liberal education. It will be our constant endeavor to make the College still more worthy of the large patronage and the kind public favor it now enjoys.

New Building.

The beautiful lithograph fronting the catalogue represents the new building to be erected for the use of the College. Some progress has been made, both in securing funds and in the execution of the work. Over $00,00 brick have been burned and paid for, the excavation has been made, and work on the foundation has been commenced. It is expected that the work will be carried forward as rapidly as the funds will justify, the purpose of the Trustees being not to contract debt. The stringency of the times may require some delay, but the work will certainly go on, and the friends of the College are asked to second, by liberal contributions, this effort to erect a building demanded by the actual wants of the Institution.

The plan for the building is the work of Mr. Drumm, a Pittsburgh architect. It was gotten up with much care, and after full consultation with the President of the Institution, who visited many of the best college buildings in the country, with a view to noting their advantages, and it is believed that this matured plan combines the very best arrangements that can be made in a building of the size, and that for beauty of architecture the building will be unsurpassed. The entire length of front is 156 feet, the greatest depth being 86 feet. Recitation rooms, chapel, society halls, library and cabinet rooms, great hall, laboratory and apparatus rooms are all provided for on such a scale as to meet the wants of a thoroughly equipped college.

LADIES' BOARDING HOUSE.—Parents and guardians desiring such an arrangement, can place young ladies in a boarding house in which they will be under the care of one of the teachers of the Institution.

Literary Societies.

UNION, for both sexes, meets every Friday at 3 o'clock P. M.

EMMA WILLARD, for ladies only, every Thursday at 3 o'clock P. M.

PHILOMATHEAN, for both sexes, meets every Friday at 3 o'clock P. M.

These Societies hold their meetings in well furnished halls, and afford all the students good facilities for weekly training in literary performances.

In Memoriam.

The memory of the just is blessed.—Bible.

Mrs. M. K. B. Miller, Founder, and for more than twenty years Principal, of the Female Department of Waynesburg College, died, April 25, 1874.

Endowed with all true womanly virtues, liberally educated, born to teach and rule, and unselfishly devoted to the good of others, she attracted large numbers of pupils, and in every other way contributed much to the prosperity of the Institution.

Nomen amicis, anima Deo vivit.
